

Thinking Outside the Banks: The Importance of Riparian Vegetation

FREE 1-day workshop!
Wednesday, April 27, 2016
9:30 am - 3:00 pm
Basalt Library, Basalt, CO

Healthy rivers and streams are the lifeblood of our valley, but did you know that stream health extends outside the river banks to include the surrounding plants and trees?

This FREE workshop will explain the connection between riparian (streamside) vegetation and healthy rivers, and demonstrate why both need attention and protection.

We will detail the importance of riparian vegetation, clarify local ordinances, and explain how to protect and care for these vital areas. In the afternoon, tour a riparian restoration project along the Roaring Fork River.

Morning refreshments and lunch provided by local restaurants. Door prizes will be awarded!

Reserve your spot. Pre-registration required by April 25th at www.roaringfork.org/events

THE CITY OF ASPEN

Sponsored by the City of Aspen, in collaboration with Roaring Fork Conservancy, Pitkin County Healthy Rivers and Streams, and Roaring Fork Leadership.

